Leaving space to the glass: a room without bounds
 The lower transom of the fixed sash has been eliminated. The glass and the external environment become the center of the room.

Wood and image only: the hardware disappears on the frame
 The sliding top guide has been inserted into the frame to hide very functional element.

A slimmer sash profile
 The frame of the sliding sash has been concealed to 74 mm thanks to a reduced backset lock.

Side point system: the essential without bounds
 The glass is built into the jamb of the frame. Thanks to an easy and adequate installation, it blends with the wall.
